A correction

In an article dated December 2, 1981, and headlined "DetRo flexes muscles", the Romulus Roman inadvertently left out a word in a letter distributed by DetRo in November of 1981.

The corrected copy should read: "Some uninformed councilmen have been known to say that the material product of our company is toxic and hazardous. This is absolutely not true. The material has NOT been classified hazardous by the Department of Natural Resources, State and County Health Departments and the Environmental Protection Agency."

Rotary did its share

Romulus Rotarians played a major role in raising funds during the annual Easter Seal Marathon campaign. Members of the local club manned telephones at the Ramada Inn to accept pledges, according to Gil White, Rotary president.

"We have also donated a microwave oven to the Easter Seal headquarters of Western Wayne County," White said.

Huron school board election

If you're seeking one of the two 4-year positions on the Huron School Board, it's time to get your petition ready. There are two seats up for grabs for the June 14th election. They are presently held by George Angel and Jackie Dregansky.

Petitions may be obtained at the school board office. Further information may be obtained by telephoning 728-2441.

MADD holds area meeting

An organizational meeting of the Wayne County Chapter of Mothers against Drunk Drivers (MADD) will be held at 7 p.m., Thurs., April 1 at the Livonia Senior Citizens Center, 15218 Farmington Road (near the northeast corner of Farmington and 5-Mile Rds.)

Topping the agenda will include latest data from State Police on the status of the drunk driving problems in the state and locally, plus an overview of the several State Senate and House Bills now under consideration.

All interested Wayne County residents are invited. They are requested to call (313 476-8344) and leave their names indicating the number of persons who will attend.

The Board of Directors and officers will be selected so that the chapter may become officially affiliated with the national M.A.D.D. organization headquartered and founded in California.

Board votes to shut 2 schools

The Romulus Board of Education Monday night voted to close two elementary schools despite outcries by some of the residents in the audience who believed the move had racial overtones.

In a narrow 4-3 decision, the Board decided to close Beverly Elementary School, 35408 Beverly Rd., and Mt. Pleasant Elementary, 39000 Superior Rd. Favoring the proposal were trustees Daniel Bales, Kenneth Berlinn, Theresa Kraft and Sandra Langley. In opposition to the proposal were board president Michael Woods, Jo Ann Marvicsin and Richard Campbell.

Approximately 180 of the Beverly students, mostly black, will attend either Cory or Wick Elementary schools next September, while those who are presently attending Mt. Pleasant will be switched to Barth. The student population at Mt. Pleasant is estimated at 225.

"We believe that this move by the board is an attempt to break up the neighborhood concept of schools in our city," said Rev. Copeland, one of the more vocal spokesmen for the position. "How else can anyone explain this action?"

Dr. William Bedell said that a study had been made of the existing school facilities and the projected student population in the coming years and the finding were that declining enrollment left the schools with little or no alternative.

Dr. William Bedell, Superintendent of schools, said that "by closing Beverly and Mt. Pleasant now, three to four years from now we'll be able to close Hayti without moving anyone except the Hayti children."

"I want to make it clear that the closings were done because of financial reasons and only financial reasons," Dr. Bedell said. "We project a savings of approximately $240,000."

Rev. Copeland responded in an emotional plea: "As an act of love don't deny Beverly people their neighborhood schools."

Dr. Bedell replied: "I don't consider isolating 190 minority children in an inadequate building an act of love."

Treasurer says she supports tax freeze

Soft-spoken Beverly McAnally knows what it is like not to have money.

The administrator of the city coffers, Mrs. McAnally, who serves Romulus as its city treasurer, thinks it's time people begin to realize that government can't be all things to all people.

"I know we've all heard this before, but government just has to be run more efficiently—that's all there is to it," Mrs. McAnally said. "It's the only way we're going to be able to get through this present financial crisis."

"I hear people out there moaning, 'I can't take this anymore!' (referring to the long lines that formed to protest the new property assessments), and you can understand that they can't. Many are out of work and can't even purchase the essential things of life. We're now at a point where everyone is taking a very serious, hard look at what they can afford."

"If we, as elected officials, are going to help people, then government is going to have to reduce the amount of money it is spending. And when you do that you must do two things—you must get more out of the employees you have, and you have to tailor the services and shift the priorities to the essentials."

Mrs. McAnally believes that putting a freeze on property taxes at the 1981 level is one step in the right direction. "But I just don't want a permanent freeze because in the long run we could all be losers if property values fall drastically—as they appear to be presently."

In the battle of property assessments, Mrs. McAnally views the local assessor as the person best qualified to determine the local value of property.

"I think the assessment is best made by the local assessor—and I think we have to make sure that the local assessor is doing his or her job. But to just arbitrarily apply a factor, as the county and state does', when the quality of life for all persons are not the same, regardless of the sales—well, in the first place those sales figures are an artificial figure because they do not always hold true."

Mrs. McAnally pointed out that if someone purchased a home several years ago for, say, $17,500 and someone recently built and sold a home in that same area for $60,000, the homeowner with the $17,500 price tag would probably get assessed well beyond the real value of the house.

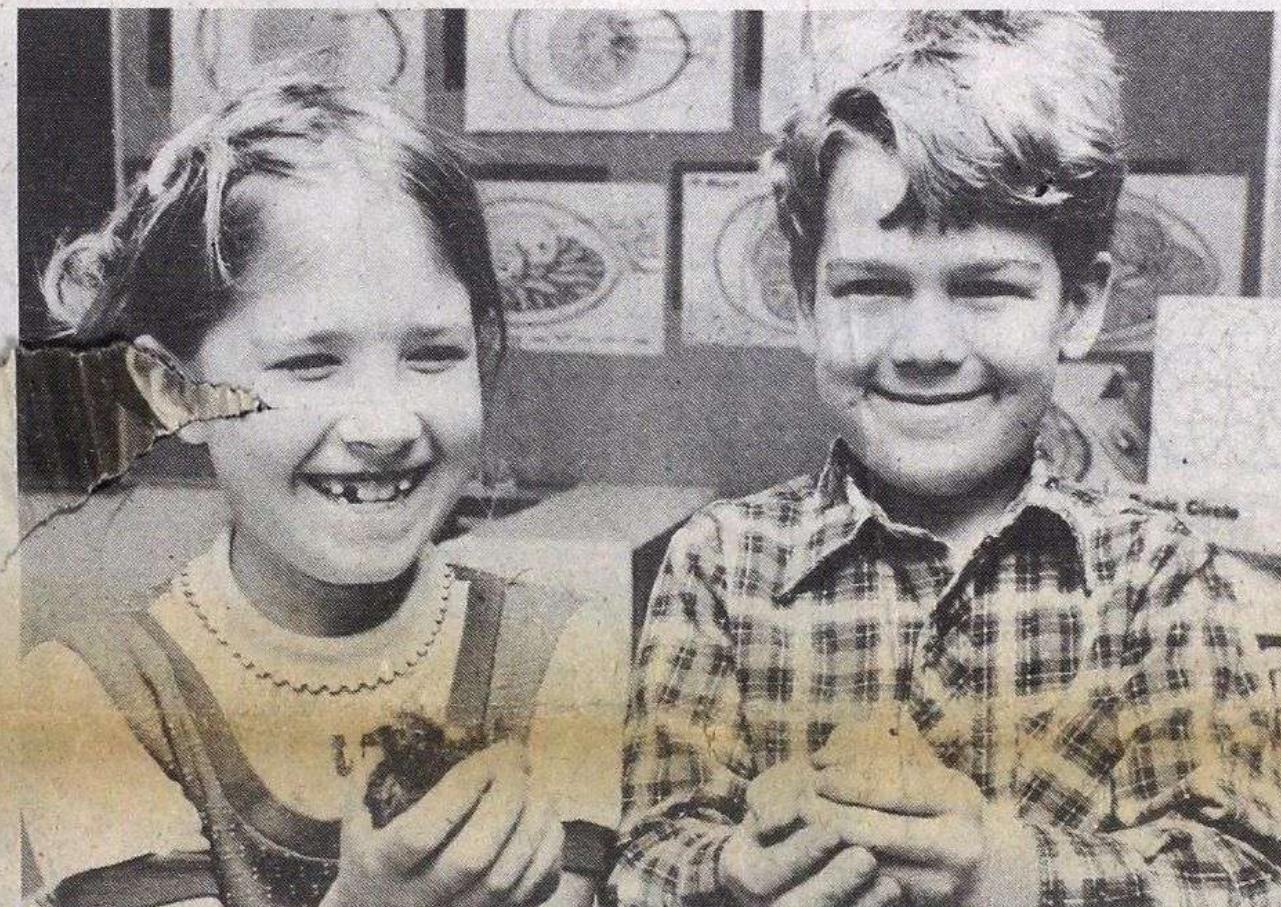

"That's why I argue that the local assessor is far more qualified to assess property value than someone from the state."

What's the solution to financing government and schools?

Mrs. McAnally offered a suggestion that is rapidly gaining support throughout the state, especially as a key to financing schools.

"I know that what I would recommend would not make me very popular, but common sense tells me that sales tax is the most dependable vehicle for collecting money. Maybe it's time we switch from property tax and hike it—and earmark the education."

Don't be surprised

My little chickadee

Carefully displaying quail which hatched in their first grade classroom at Merriman Elementary School in Romulus are Michelle Allen and Chipper Thomas, both 7. The youngsters are learning about nature first hand thanks to the Wayne County 4-H Club which supplied eggs and an incubator to the classroom, and teacher Joan Ozmars had her hands full keeping the pupils from going overboard during the project. At the end, some 16 quail saw their first light in the classroom. The science project was coordinated also by Connie Testorelli from the 4-H group. "The kids also improved other skills by writing about the quail and drawing pictures of them," their teacher said. "They enjoyed showing the newly hatched quail to other classes and describing some of the things they learned as the eggs became chicks. Photo by Lothar Konietzko, ANP Chief Photographer

Ritter seeks commissioner's seat in newly-aligned District

Although he may not know it, Doug Ritter made history this week.

Ritter, 31, became the first candidate to announce his candidacy for the newly-revised Wayne County Commissioner post in the 11th District. The district now includes Canton, Romulus, Belleville, Van Buren, Sumpter, and Huron.

"I see this as a challenge," said Ritter, a Canton resident. "I am not going in there to oppose any individual or group, but simply to propose a new policy and philosophy that is consistent with the new county charter."

Married and the father of three children, Ritter's education includes stints at Oakland Community College, Eastern Michigan University, and having also attended supervisory courses at General Motors. He has been employed for the past 11 years at the Warehousing and Distribution Division of GM and is currently Material Control and Distribution analyst.

Ritter said he looks forward to working within the framework of the new charter, which was given resounding approval last November and which provides for an elected Chief Executive.

It is clear, by this vote, that people recognize the need for definite lines of authority, with checks and balances between the legislative and administrative branches of government," he said.

"I believe this indicates that people want complete accountability from their elected representatives, as well as good basic services for the fewest tax dollars. Therefore, my personal goal as your new County Commissioner will be to live honest and thorough government.

To achieve this, Ritter said, the cooperative County Commission to make the massive changes necessary—thus, strengthening the services of the county government.

While not surrendering in any way the interests of my constituents, I will emphasize common goals. First-hand experience has shown me that cooperation by an elected governmental body produced a beautiful, well-used public library. The same spirit of cooperation will also make the Wayne County Commission a truly productive legislative body.

"We can do better and, with the new charter, we certainly shall. The degree of that improvement will be determined by the quality of the county officials we elect. Fully recognizing that this is a major turning point at the County, I am asking for the opportunity to serve and help unsnarl the tangle that we now call Wayne County Government," Ritter concluded.

as Romulus water department employees attempted to bilk two elderly residents last week in separate incidents.

"We have had two separate cases of larceny by trick reported to us," Romulus Police Chief Donald Flood confirmed. "The reported incidents involved two male suspects who posed as city water department employees.

"These men have approached elderly residents on pretense that they (the elderly) had refunds due them from the city. They would then produce large bills and request change in order to pay the unsuspecting residents," Chief Flood said.

When the resident went to make change, the two culprits would take note where the victim was hiding money. Then, one of the men would distract the victim by asking to check the water pipes or meter to care.

As the victim guided the man to the source, the second man would ransack the house.

"Most of the victims are elderly," said Chief Flood, "and, apparently these men are very smooth operators. In no way should a resident let a stranger into their house." All city employees have photographic identification cards and most water department employees operate vehicles with the city's seal painted on the side."

Flood said that his department is looking for two men, around 35 to 40 years old. Both are dark-complexioned and drive a blue pickup with a damaged grill.

"These same culprits also offer to make repairs," Flood said, "and they have told their victims that they sell a variety of products."

Anyone with information of this type of criminal activity is urged to contact the Romulus or local police departments.

Supt. Bartz to leave Huron schools

The Huron School District will lose its Superintendent of Schools at the end of the current school year.

Supt. Curtis D. Bartz said Monday that he is submitting his resignation to the school board in order to accept a similar position with the River Rouge School District. He will assume the duties with the River Rouge schools on July 1.

Career-wise it's a step forward for me," Supt. Bartz said. "River Rouge is a larger school district and will offer me a greater challenge. It is a very difficult decision to make at this time, however, because I do have a son in this (Huron) school system."

"Fortunately, though, I do not at this time have to move to the Rouge district," Bartz added.

Hired under a 3-year contract, Bartz came to Huron after serving as superintendent in Deerfield.

Michigan. Before that, he was a building administrator for 10 years in Clawson.

Supt. Bartz said that he would be offering his services "in every way possible to make the transition as smooth as possible."

Bartz, 47, and his wife, Jeanette, have a daughter, Kathryn, 19, who attends Henry Ford Community College and a son, Curtis, Jr., who is a junior at Huron High School.

French Landing Dam goes down in history

Another Van Buren site has received the coveted designation as a historic site.

"We've received word from the Michigan History Division of the Michigan Secretary of State's Office, that the French Landing Dam and its powerhouse have recently been added to the Michigan Register of Historic Sites," said

Cathy L. Horste, Van Buren Township historian.

When such designations are awarded, the site is marked with an appropriate brass State of Michigan historical marker, Ms. Horste pointed out.

Thus, the French Landing Dam and Powerhouse become the second site within Van Buren Township to be so honored. Final wording of the marker will be sent to the Van Buren township board for approval within the next 30 days, and marker erection is expected within 60 days from that time.

Plans currently call for a tea-type ceremony for the unveiling of the large marker, will be placed on the sidewalk of the actual powerhouse.

The Dam and Powerhouse were originally built by Detroit Edison in the early 1920's, which resulted in the creation of Belleville Lake. Although Detroit Edison no longer owns the dam and powerhouse (it being turned over to Van Buren Township in the 1960's) the dam may once again generate power due to reconstruction efforts underway by Van Buren Township.

The listing of the Dam and Powerhouse is the second successful listing in a planned series of three listing/marker projects undertaken as a joint effort by the Van Buren Township Historic District Study Commission and the GFWC-MSFWC Belleville Junior Study Club. Funds to pay for the State of Michigan Markers are being raised through the sale of "Opportunity-Van Buren Township" games — a monopoly type games which features local businesses instead of the traditional Boardwalk and Park Place. For more information on the historical projects or the game, interested parties may contact the VBT hall — 699-2001.

Hertel says:

'Keep toxic control agency'

A bill to continue the watchdog efforts of the state Toxic Substance Control Commission (TSCC) was given a boost today as numerous state, local and environmental leaders held a news conference to announce their united support of Senate Bill 600. The bill, introduced by State Senator John C. Hertel (D-Harper Woods) would remove the Commission's scheduled expiration date of January 1, 1983.

Commenting on the Toxic Substance Control Commission's establishment in 1978, Hertel explained, "It is important to remember that when this Commission was formed, Michigan was known throughout the country for its inadequate response to the PBB emergency. People were afraid to eat Michigan food products."

The PBB crisis and resulting concern over the ability of state Departments to respond to toxic substance contaminations led to the creation of the Toxic Substance Control Commission. The Commission, which began operations in January 1979, was given oversight responsibility to insure prompt and coordinated response from state bureaucracy.

Additionally, the Commission was given the authority to declare toxic emergencies when health-endangering situations were found to exist. In the event of a toxic emergency declaration, the TSCC is authorized to assume full responsibility for directing clean-up efforts.

Dr. Steven Aust, an original member of the Commission and its Chairman since January 1981, offered his thoughts on the significance of the Commission. "Michigan was the first state to create a strong, independent agency to cope with toxic substance problems. The act establishing the TSCC has become a model throughout the country. It is extremely important that the Commission continue its coordinating function. It would be a disgrace if the strides which Michigan has made in responding to toxic contaminations were to go down the drain."

The Toxic Substance Control Commission has played a major role in coordinating governmental response to toxic contaminations throughout the state. Among the issues addressed by the Commission have been the cleanup contamination in the City of Adrian and the clean-up of toxic wastes in Oakland County and at the Berlin and Farro site.

"There can be no question but that the state Departments have become more responsive to toxic substance problems since the Commission came into existence," said Senator Hertel. "The Toxic Substance Control Commission has brought the management of toxic material clean-ups before the public and has provided a forum for citizens to express their concerns about suspected contaminations. We cannot let the handling of toxic substance crises slip back behind the closed doors of state Departments."

The State Senate's Environmental and Agricultural Affairs Committee, chaired by Senator Hertel, will discuss Senate Bill 600 at its meeting scheduled for Thursday, March 25.

For school operating cost

MTA supports tax shift plan

Robert Robinson, executive director of the Michigan Townships Association (MTA) announced at a news conference today the details of the MTA-supported property tax plan.

The statewide organization, made up of 1,225 member townships and 6,500 township officials, went on record as supporting a plan that takes the principal responsibility of supporting school operating costs off the property tax.

MTA's proposal would cut 75% off the school operating portion of the property tax up to a ceiling of $1,800 for resident homesteads and $2,500 for resident farms.

Those ceilings would be indexed to the increases or reductions in State Equalized Valuations (SEVs).

Homeowners over 62 years of age would pay no school operating taxes.

The tax plan also calls for holding schools, business and industry harmless from replacing any losses due to taxpayer exemptions.

It also provides that agricultural and forestry land may be assessed on use rather than market value.

The property tax cuts would cause a shortfall of $1.5 billion. Approximately $1 billion of that loss would be made up through circuit breaker savings and by increasing the sales tax by one cent.

The remaining $500 million could be made up either through the Legislature increasing the state income tax by eight-tenths of a percent or cutting services.

"Never before have the State coffers of the school funding system been in this kind of shape," said Robinson. "Though we would have preferred to support a cut rather than a shift, we realize that this State is in deep trouble and can't afford it right now."

"We believe our members and the rest of the State are clamoring for property tax relief, however, and we feel it's time to base school funding more on the ability to pay."

MTA's Board of Directors voted to give the MTA Property Tax Proposal top priority until the petition drive allows the issue to be placed on the ballot and until it is passed by the voters in November.

Members throughout the State are circulating petitions, with a goal of 450,000 signatures by July 1.

Huron Township clerk launches tax cut campaign

MARY LOU CAREY

Huron Township Clerk Mary Lou Carey is a staunch supporter of the Michigan Townships Association's initiative petition that would amend the State Constitution for a proposed MTA tax shift from property to sales to support and provide equal and quality education in Michigan.

"I have just returned from Lansing with a very positive feeling," Mrs. Carey said. "The Board of Directors of the MTA took a very positive stand today in seeking property tax relief for the people of Michigan."

"I have petitions in my office and I am looking for help in getting them circulated in Wayne County. Each member of the Board of Directors has been asked to get 15,000 signatures on these petitions and I can't cover Wayne County alone, therefore I need help," Mrs. Carey pleaded.

Mrs. Carey said that those who are interested in joining the battle for tax relief may contact her at the township offices, (753-4466).

The petition would amend Article VIII, Section 2 and Article IX, Section 3 and 8 of the Michigan Constitution, and adding Section 6A would provide equal and quality education opportunities to all students. It would also remove a major proportion of the school operational tax from the property tax on homesteads and farms.

The Constitutional Amendment, if approved, would also remove all school operating taxes for homestead residents who are 62 years of age and over, and would provide for assessment of agricultural and forestry lands by use and, finally, would provide for increases in sales taxes of one percent and earmark it for schools.

Seniors meet supt.

Dr. William Bedell, Superintendent of Romulus Community Schools, took time off from his busy schedule to chitchat with Jean Smith, manager of the Romulus Towers at a luncheon given by a senior citizens Cooking and Nutrition class. The class, sponsored by the Romulus Schools Adult Education Program, meets weekly at Romulus Towers.

700 seniors take part in 'Discover Good Health'

More than 700 senior citizens from western and downriver Wayne County took up the challenge to "Discover Good Health" during the past six months through a free health screening program offered by Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA).

The second half of the year-long program begins in April, and again PCHA is urging persons 60 and older in out-Wayne County to "Discover Good Health". During the next six months, free health screenings will be offered at 26 community locations.

The full screening includes vision, hearing, glaucoma, blood pressure, respiration and TB testing, plus breast exam, blood chemistry or urinalysis, and information and counseling on a number of health subjects.

Health testing is done by a team of hospital professionals from the four participating PCHA units — Annapolis in Wayne, Heritage in Taylor, Outer Drive in Lincoln Park, and Seaway in Trenton. Seaway joined the program this month.

Other agencies contributing personnel, equipment and/or services to the program are the Optometric Institute and Clinic of Detroit, the Greater Detroit Society for the Blind, Superior Courier Service, the hospital Auxiliaries and the American Cancer Society. Several health organizations donate literature.

Any person 60 or older living in out-Wayne County can take part in the health screening. The program is sponsored by PCHA, with a Title III grant through the Out-Wayne County Area on Aging. A particular goal of the program is to serve the elderly who are in the greatest social, economic and physical need.

During the first half of the program, more than 700 persons participated at 17 screenings. Some 13 percent of the screening tests revealed a health problem that had previously been undetected. Respiratory disease, diabetes, vision problems, glaucoma, hypertension and hearing disorders were just some of the conditions detected through the screenings. Those who tested within normal ranges realized not only the peace of mind from "discovering" good health, but were able to learn more about maintaining a healthy lifestyle.

Listed below are future screening dates and locations, and the number to call for an appointment for each. Screenings are on an appointment basis only.

Payless payday looms in local district

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

All employees of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools will face a payless payday between mid-March and mid-June, following a decision by the State Department of Education to split and delay payment of its final state school aid payment, due June 1.

According to School Supt. Dr. Timothy Dyer, the payless payday is not a reflection on the financial stability of the district, but rather a problem of the state not honoring its commitment to pay these funds on a timely basis.

State school aid payments make up about 45 percent of the district's revenues, about $25 million, with the June payment estimated to be about $4 million.

The district's bargaining units have been presented with the request to defer one paycheck until the state aid payment is received, with several unions already responding affirmatively. However, due to contract language for several unions, the district will not have a response from all units until April 4.

"This is the first time, to my knowledge, that this has ever been done in this district," Dyer said, "but these are difficult times that call for an unusual response."

He lauded employees who already have expressed a willingness to defer their paychecks, saying that the district "is grateful for their tremendous spirit of support."

The district became aware of the possible problem with the payment on March 10, and shortly thereafter, the indication was switched to an order. That order, according to the superintendent, has thrown the district's cash flow into a tremendous tizzy, although from an auditor's point of view, we're in great shape."

Administrators reviewed the problem the delay will create and found that with a $10 million tax anticipation note due then, the district would be able to pay its bills, but not meet its bi-weekly payroll. In lieu of borrowing the needed $2.2 million to cover the payroll, money that would cost an estimated $130,000 in interest charges, the district opted for approval of the payless payday.

The district chose to go to employees two months' in advance of the problem period in order to give its workers an opportunity "to get things in order, so they can prepare for it," Dyer explained.

Dyer predicted that other districts that are heavily into state school aid also will face cash flow problems before the end of their fiscal year because of the delay and split of the final payment.

All about computers

These three students, Patricia Greene (standing), Richard Simms, and Edward Harrison, received an opportunity to learn some of the intriguing facets of the world of computers at the Belleville-based Wayne County Community College. The college has invited area schools to send groups to the school in order for the students to become exposed to the large-scale computer and data processing system at the Western Region branch of WCCC.

WCCC hosts high school CDP career workshop

In an effort to expose area students to a large-scale computer and data processing system, the Western Region of Wayne County Community College recently held a "High School CDP Career Workshop," according to Dr. Julius Brown, Dean of the Western Region.

"We are delighted with this kind of workshop for high school students," Dr. Brown noted, "as an integral part of the College's ongoing process of reaching out to schools in the community."

Courts block group homes for mentally ill

By SUE BACHAND
ANP Staff Writer

Twelve mentally ill residents of two group homes in Canton Township will soon be moved to other facilities by order of Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Victor Baum.

Rep. Owen asks probe of roads

Angered over the conditions of the roads, residents in Sumpter and Van Buren stormed to their respective township halls to demand repairs last week.

They learned however that most of the roads that need repairs fell under the Wayne County Road Commission's jurisdiction.

In Van Buren, township officials invited county commissioner R. William Joyner to address the problem. Joyner said admittedly the roads were bad, but that there was little he could do to solve the problem. He did set up a meeting between township supervisor Patricia Cullin, township trustee Chester Wojcie and co-chairman of the Wayne County Road Commission, Claude Dukes.

Dukes explained because of the lack of funds, repairs this year have fallen way behind schedule. He pointed out that the harsh winter had compounded the problem.

In the meantime, State Rep. Gary M. Owen (D-Ypsilanti) has asked for an investigation into the deteriorating conditions of the county roads."

In a letter to John P. Woodford, director of Department of Transportation, Owen wrote:

Dear Mr. Woodford:

I would like to request that your department investigate a situation in western Wayne County which has been deteriorating on a yearly basis. Certain roads in that area for which the Wayne County Road Commission is responsible have been allowed to deteriorate to the point where public health and safe-

A new lake? No, just a submerged road

It may look like a new lake has sprung up in the township, or maybe an obstacle course, but in normal times and under normal weather conditions the above scenery is where Harris Road is located. Road conditions like above have stirred up residents to complain at township meetings. In Van Buren, County Commissioner R. William Joyner and Van Buren Township Supervisor Patricia Cullin decided to take the case to the Wayne County Road Commission, while State Rep. Gary M. Owen (22nd District) dashed off a letter to John P. Woodford, director of the Department of Transportation, and asked for an investigation. In the meantime, motorists beware...

ty has been threatened.

Yesterday, a gentleman in my district died because an ambulance could not proceed along a County road. The ambulance was bringing respiratory equipment necessary to keep that man alive.

From my own personal inspection, not only this year but for the last ten years, I have found these roads to be in extremely poor condition, and the County seems unwilling to respond to a problem for which they are responsible.

In order to alleviate this problem, I have made attempts in the past to have these roads designated as the state's responsibility. However, because of traffic counts, which dictate the qualification of roads, these roads do not and cannot qualify for state assistance.

I am requesting the following:

- That the Michigan State Transportation Department go into the area to determine who is responsible for the problem and then recommend short-term and long-term solutions:

- That the Michigan State Transportation Department look into the allocation of funds by the Wayne County Road Commission to determine whether or not the funds have been expended correctly as dictated by law;

- That the Michigan State Transportation Department will review every possible way to provide assistance and service to the local units in order to resolve this extremely difficult situation.

Unemployed? You may be eligible for TRA benefits

Congressman William D. Ford (D-Taylor) today urged unemployed Michigan workers to apply for retraining benefits made available by the U.S. Department of Labor under the Trade Adjustment Assistance (TRA) program.

Michigan recently received $4.4 million in TRA training, job search, and relocation benefits.

Training benefits may be used to pay for classroom training at a high school, college, or university, or vocational-technical school.

To qualify for reimbursement, classes must improve a worker's chances of finding a job. Both classroom and on-the-job training must be approved by the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC).

Tuition subsidies, which may be applied for up to two years of training, average approximately $3,000 annually.

Congressman Ford explained that the time to apply for these benefits is limited. Workers must apply for training within 210 days of their import-related separation from work.

Many workers who applied in a timely fashion in the past but were told no funds were available are still eligible for these benefits.

"Anyone who is unsure of his or her status should contact the nearest MESC office as soon as possible," Congressman Ford said. "In addition, employers who are interested in hiring workers for on-the-job training, partly subsidized by the TRA program, should contact the MESC for information about eligible workers and how the program works."

County has a million dollar communications problem

Wayne County Commissioners have a $1 million communications problem and have set aside $4,000 for a consulting firm to study it.

With elimination of the Sheriff's Road Patrol program last year, commissioners are attempting to find a use for the former road patrol offices on Henry Ruff Road, Westland, and part of the problem includes a vast communications network used by the Sheriff, in conjunction with surrounding communities, to round-up the bad guys.

Commissioners have already agreed to lease most of the facility to the Friend of the Court and have turned over a garage to the County Buildings Division for vehicle repairs and a trades shop, but they are still in a quandry concerning the radio equipment and whether to allow the Nankin Transit Authority space for offices and bus storage.

Nankin Transit representatives are asking for office space on the second floor and availability of a "barn" at the rear of the building to store and repair their transportation equipment.

corporations operating facilities — a total of eight defendants, according to attorney Judd Hemmings who represented the township at the trial.

Hemmings explained that the definition of mentally ill was one of the key points at issue in the litigation. "The law and the act itself, clearly define mentally ill as a person who suffers substantial disorder of thought or mood which significantly impairs judgement, behavior, the capacity to recognize reality or the ability to cope with the ordinary demands of life."

"It was the position of the township that such persons should be in a large group home or a congregate facility in non-residential areas," Hemmings said.

According to the attorney, this ruling does not include the mentally retarded, developmentally disabled, the aged or physically handicapped, and those individuals can still be placed in the small group homes housing no more than six residents.

As evidence, the township brought four qualified psychiatrists to court to testify as expert witnesses in the matter of the mentally ill. Among these, Hemmings said, was Dr. Emmanuel Tanay, the president of the Michigan Psychiatric Society and one of the foremost psychiatrists in the country.

"I think the testimony of Dr. Tanay helped our case. His name is mentioned several times in the decision of the judge," Hemmings noted.

Tanay basically advised the court that he would consider the mentally ill as better cared for in larger facilities and that placement in smaller homes provided a danger to both the neighbors and to the patients themselves, Hemmings reported.

The group homes, one on Forest Trails Drive and the other on Raintree Court are located in residential districts of the township, and are presently benefiting from a state zoning exemption allowing six residents in an area zoned for single family occupancy.

According to Hemmings, evidence presented at the court indicated that one of the operators of an alleged non-profit group home had demonstrated a profit of $2.4 million one year, although this evidence was rejected by the court in administering the decision.

"This is the first case in the state which has gone to trial on the legislative intent of the licensing act," Hemmings explained. "This is a very important decision."

"If the state appeals the decision, the appeals court will take a long, hard look at the evidence presented by both sides and I am confident that the Court of Appeals would uphold Judge Baum's decision."

"The act does not define emotionally impaired and those individuals may be placed in small group homes. The defense attempted to prove this term synonymous with mentally ill — the court decided that if the legislature had meant the terms as synonymous, they would have said so in the act and usually two terms are not used for the same definition in the same act," Hemmings explained.

He served his internship and residency at the University of Utah Medical Center and has been in emergency medicine for five years. By DR. ERNEST SORINI

"Kids say the darndest things", was the name of a great old TV segment of a show called, "Art Linkletter's House Party".

Well, "Art Linkletter's House Party" has given way to such midday television masterpieces as, "Days of our Lives" and "As the World Turns", but kids still say the darndest things.

One kid told me the other day that I looked just like a doctor. I then asked my son exactly what he meant by this, and I went on to say, "Good, you look like a kid."

Another little child, fortunately not my own this time, told me that she had brought her mother to the hospital and when I asked her why she had done this, she said, "So she could watch you take the bean out of my nose."

Kids not only say the darndest things, but they also often do the darndest things. And just like what children say get them into a considerable amount of trouble, often times what they do can get them into even more trouble.

For example, the recent spring weather has prompted many of the previously hibernating school children to get their bikes, rollerskates and skateboards out of moth balls and into the shopping malls, streets, avenues, and other places which are generally not conducive to good health.

To add to the explosive situation, many drivers have discovered that when the roads aren't covered with ice and snow, they are able to be traversed at much greater rates of speed than were previously possible in the winter months — in other words, they are getting their pedal to the metal more as it warms up.

The untimely meeting of a child on a bicycle and a grown-up in an automobile can obviously lead to disability and even death for a child and a lifetime of heartache for the bereaved parent.

So please, parents, admonish your children to ride their various forms of wheels in the places which have been designed for such riding and at times and under safety rules which will keep this spring one that you will always remember instead of one which you'd rather forget.

Dan Welch asked that action be taken in the form of letters to the Wayne County Solid Waste Planning Agency and Committee asking why Sumpter Township's Ordinance was not included as part of their plan. The Township submitted a zoning map, land use map and Zoning Ordinance to the Wayne County Solid Waste Planning Agency and at the time were of the opinion that they were to become part of the Solid Waste Management Plan.

J. Send letter to Michigan DNR asking them to give authority to the people, where a Waste facility exists, to set up an information committee, so when unusual odors begin to emanate from the facility the DNR can be informed.

His only answer seemed to be that the County has no money to work on the roads and he really doesn't know what the answer is as far as residents getting in and out of their roads.

Mr. Brown of Holiday Woods Mobile Home Park on Martinsville Road was present and stated that he has collected $600 from the park residents and residents along Martinsville Road and will probably have $1,000 by the end of the week to buy gravel or stone for Martinsville Road in front of the Park so people can get out, go to work, etc.

Supervisor Reeves suggested he work directly with the Road Commission and perhaps can come to some agreement with them as to the purchase of stone.

Mr. Morgan asked Mr. Mahoney if the Township could be furnished with a record of man hours and equipment used by the County in Sumpter Township. He said a record would be given to the Township.

L. Motion by Duey, supported by Banotai, to increase Election precinct inspectors rate to bring them up to $3.35

There were 2 sets of races that night; one for the Cub Scouts and one for the parents. The first place winner for Cub Scouts was Mark Binert, second place went to Michael Teall, and third place to Billy Pokojski. The winner of the parents race, for the third consecutive year, was Norbert Teall.

Blue & Gold Banquet:

After a pot luck dinner the children and parents were mystified by the magical talents of George Wessel as "Toby the Enchanted."

The highlight of the evening were all of the awards that the boys worked so hard to earn.

In Den 1, Mary Townsend, Den Leader, gave one year service stars to Larry Blackwell & Steven Howard. Wolf Badges were presented to David Gray, Larry Blackwell and Steven Howard. Gold & Silver Arrow Points were earned out of the Wolf Book by Jerry Adkins, David Gray, Larry Blackwell, Christopher Hogan, and Steven Howard. Mrs. Townsend also awarded Bear Badges to Larry Blackwell, Michael Coleman, Kenneth Gray, Christopher Hogan, and Steven Howard.

Derrick Kirby, leader of Den 2, presented Jeff Kirby, Jason McDaniel, and George Patton with their Bobcat Badges.

Den 3's Den Leader is Darlene Elliott. Carl Rowsey was given a Silver Arrow Point earned from his Wolf Book.

Maple syrup:

It's a sure sign of spring in Romulus

One sure sign of spring is maple syrup.

When the weather warms, the sap in the maple grove begins its sweet journey.

And four youngsters whose fathers and grandfathers learned the art of maple syruping were in the grove last week, tapping maple trees for nectar.

The youngsters, Geoff Herrmann, 14, Eric Morris, 15, Darius Varner, 12, and Marc Herrman, 8, are the sixth generation of the Morris family to practice this art in Romulus.

Entirely their own venture, the boys tap the maple trees, collect the buckets of the fresh, sweet-tasting sap from the trees, and then boil the sap down to make pure maple syrup. Gallons of sap are then evaporated in a large flat metal pan out-of-doors, to make one gallon of maple syrup.

It is necessary to have warm, sunny days and freezing nights to cause the sap to rise in the maple trees. Indians first discovered this process of making syrup in the early days of our country.

Earlier generations of the youngster's ancestors considered the sale of maple syrup and maple sugar a valuable winter "money crop." Robert Anson Morris settled in Romulus in 1845 as a young married man with a wife and two small children. He is believed to have learned this process in his home state, New York.

Intrigued with stories told by his grandparents, Frederick and Helen Hay, and Aunt Pearl Morris of Romulus, Geoff was determined to try for himself, and tapped his first few maple trees with Eric Morris who had gotten some maple "spouts" from his grandfather, Carl W. Morris, a few years ago. They boiled the sap over a small bonfire in the backyard.

Last year the boys made several gallons of syrup.

Why do they do it?

Not for the money, because they give away the samples. "It is the enjoyment of being out in the woods to enjoy the first awakening of Spring," they said. They roast hot dogs by the fire and eat outdoors as they watch the steam roll off the large pan as the sap evaporates. Nevertheless, the going price of pure maple syrup would be from $12 to $15 per gallon.

Once it begins to thicken and change to a brownish color, the boiling liquid mounts to a white foaming mass. Should it start boiling over, everything can be lost. The boys have to be ever alert to see that the consistency is exactly right, if the maple syrup is to be preserved. Otherwise, it might sour.

Geoff and Marc Herrmann are the sons of Mrs. Margie Herrmann of 14200 Huron River Drive; Eric is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Morris of 37545 Walnut, Romulus; and Darius is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Varner of 15950 Haggerty Road, Belleville.

FIRST AID FOR TOOTHACHE

By far, the most common dental emergency is the toothache. Pain usually indicates that decay is present and can be irritating the pulp (a soft tissue in the center of the tooth containing blood vessels and nerve tissue).

Aspirin (swallowed, NEVER held against the tooth or gum) will help reduce the pain. Immediate attention by a dentist is needed to drain the infection. Never use prolonged medication with either pain killer or antibiotics. These may temporarily alleviate the symptoms but will not eliminate the pain.

Tapping for sweet maple syrup

Country folks know that when the sap begins to run, it's Spring. And it's also time to tap the maple grove. Fifteen-year-old Eric Morris (photo immediately above) knows how to handle a drill and locate the precious vein of liquid that eventually would pour into sap bucket, held for him by Geoff Herrmann, 14. In the photo at the right, Geoff pours the watery liquid, which he says is almost tasteless, into a larger container that will be driven by Darius Varner to the "oven" where it is boiled down into the sweet syrup. Adding fuel to the flame is 8-year-old Marc Herrmann, who like his friends, has a lot of experience in turning sap to sweet syrup.

Our opinions

Time to junk property tax to finance schools

School closings and teacher layoffs remain volatile issues in school districts across Michigan.

Recent decisions to shut two Romulus schools and lay off some 26 teachers in Belleville are merely two more reminders of a fundamental problem.

The problem, put in simple terms, is that the funding of education through property tax assessments has become an antiquated and insufficient solution to the fiscal situation facing most of our districts.

Nobody likes to see schools closed, teachers dismissed or programs cut. Yet these events occur with frightening regularity despite objections of parents who are concerned, and rightfully so, with the education of their children.

School districts wrestle with declining enrollment and cutbacks in state funding while the state bureaucracy faces a too real battle against deficit spending and an economy which has eroded its resources.

And who must suffer? Our children, unfortunately.

But difficulties in our school systems will persist as long as we fail to supplement the property-tax method of funding. Usage of property taxes for school purposes has suited us well through the years. However, its usefulness has been diminished by the sophisticated financial burdens of the 1980s.

How can more funds be generated for schools in the most equitable fashion? We suggest an increase in the sales tax from four to five percent with the extra funds earmarked solely for education.

"Solely for education" is a term that has been misused in the past and needs clarification. Judging from past inconsistencies regarding the state's lottery system — originally designed solely to fund the educational sector — it would be necessary to spell out in legislation the usage of sales tax revenues to avoid any notion that these monies would land in the general fund budget.

We believe that a majority of Michigan voters would favor a sales tax hike if guaranteed the monies would ease a clouded school picture in the state. Such a boost should also provide an opportunity for some measure of relief to the already overburdened property owner in the form of a property tax cut.

Additional sales tax revenues will not solve all our school problems. However, a one percent increase would be a step in the right direction for our children.

In winter's wake

Self interests above twp. interests in recall campaign?

I have been reading about the Van Buren Township Board recall for several months and cannot sit still any longer and watch a small self-interest group do this Township irreparable harm.

It is unfortunate that members of the Recall Committee feign knowledge of governmental procedures.

In the past two editions of the Associated Newspapers were letters regarding the Board's selection of a trustee to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Fred Domen.

Upon the recommendation of Supervisor Pat Cullin, a procedure was established for selection of a Trustee.

However, after following the procedure to the end, an impasse was reached and a further procedure had to be formulated. The above procedure included only names of residents who requested the seat. The Supervisor suggested that each member of the board put down a list of any other names of community residents that they felt would be a capable Township Board member in hopes that the same name or names would appear on all six lists, thus the appointment of Thurston Jahr, whom I might add is a very respected, long-time resident of Van Buren.

It was absolutely ludicrous for the recall people to suggest that the "single-transferable vote system" could be utilized in Township government. A Township is not governed by Roberts Rules of Order; but rather it is governed by State Statute.

I would like to enlighten the residents of this Township on a few facts. The Township of Van Buren has a population of almost 19,000 people of which 11,000 are registered voters. Doesn't it strike you as being a little bit odd that it has taken all these months to gather the approximately 1100 signatures necessary to hold a recall election. That's only 10 percent of the voters.

I'm very much concerned about the devastating effect this movement is causing. On the whole, the Township Board has constantly acted in good faith. We have become a laughing stock to other communities. I don't mean that the Board is being laughed at, but us — you, me and our neighbors. The recall petition states that the Township Board violated State Law in the hiring of Richard Debs. That's ridiculous! If the Board ever violated any State Law, the Attorney General would have cited Van Buren and corrective measures would have been taken. This again demonstrates the Recall Committee's lack of knowledge concerning government.

I have attended Board meetings regularly for the past six years. I have watched different self-interest groups come and go; and I have seen some of these groups enlighten the Board on various problems towards meaningful solutions.

I watched thousands of people rally behind the Township Board while the Board sat in jail fighting to protect the integrity and environment of this community.

There are those people (such as the Recall Committee) who feel that there is only one way to solve a problem (their way) but anyone who feels that way only shows a complete lack of administrative capabilities. They are foolish!

As any good administrator would know, there are as many proper ways administratively to achieve a valued goal as there are people who are participating in making the decision.

The seven people known as the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees are human beings who may make a mistake. That is only a total of fourteen eyes to watch everything that happens in this community. They need and expect input from residents to point out problem areas, so that by working together we can make this a better place to live.

I compel you not to let one small self-interest group destroy the strength and continuity of Van Buren. This is a good community and we are fortunate to be under the realm of responsible officials. I further compel you to investigate the propaganda being spread by the Recall Committee. See if it is based on facts or self-interest motives.

The Hillenbrand Report

City-county consolidation: Option for local government reform?

By BERNARD F. HILLENBRAND

The "Yates Manifesto" is not a declaration of war. But it did initiate revolutionary local government reform. Scrawled on a napkin, the one-sentence manifesto called for "more efficient government" through city-county consolidation.

It was penned in 1965 by a group of Duval County (Jacksonville), Fla., citizens meeting in a downtown hotel, the guests of Chamber of Commerce President Claude Yates. Only after crisis — when a number of local officials were indicted — did voters support this drastic measure. In 1969, Jacksonville became one of 25 consolidated city-county governments in the United States.

There are lessons to be learned from those 25, if only this: What works for one locality will not necessarily work for another. No two consolidation attempts have been alike, few are even similar.

For every one approved, three referendums have been rejected.

Consolidation, or merging boundaries of city and county, is just one option today's reformers look at when contemporary problems — such as inflation, poor planning, erosion of the tax base or multiple jurisdictions — require local government reorganization.

Although most consolidations create a single legislative body, some jurisdictions have maintained smaller units of government while merging service delivery. In Dade County (Miami), Fla., a two-tiered system of shared responsibilities was established.

Has consolidation worked? There have been more than 20 comprehensive studies of consolidation in the last decade. According to most researchers, and extensive interviews with local officials, the answer is yes. That is not to say that consolidation is the answer to all metropolitan problems. These governments have their problems, serious ones, too. But in terms of their objectives, consolidation has been successful.

It has achieved efficient government; better, expanded services; greater use of fiscal resources; and more responsibility to citizens. Perhaps the best and most recent study of consolidation was conducted by Price-Waterhouse and Co., for Shelby County (Memphis), Tenn. Their analysts looked at reorganization of Jacksonville, Miami, Marion County (Indianapolis), Ind., and Davidson County (Nashville), Tenn.

Major benefits they found include countywide planning, financing and delivery of services, elimination of "buck-passing" between city and county, increased federal funding, new business investment and heightened public confidence in government.

What consolidation will probably not do — is reduce taxes.

"In all locations studied," Price-Waterhouse consultants have written, "proponents of government reorganization had originally predicted that consolidation would 'save money' and result in lower taxes. Despite the generally excellent financial performances of the consolidated cities studied, officials recommend that reductions in property tax rates not be used as a 'selling point' for consolidation — lest an unrealistic burden for lower rates be placed on the new consolidated government."

At the same time, consultants found that by 1977, consolidated governments had been able to either reduce taxes or keep increases below those of other comparable cities and counties.

"There is no evidence consolidation will cause higher taxes," the report states. Furthermore, "consolidation has increased the ability of governments to collect other revenue such as user fees and charges."

In three of the areas studied bond ratings improved following consolidation.

Fear of tax increases is a major detriment to consolidation referendums, particularly when county residents believe taxes will increase to pay for city problems. Although the fear is without basis, many successful consolidations, such as Nashville, solved this problem by creating two taxing and service districts for county residents.

So consolidation may not reduce taxes, but can ensure voters get what they pay for. Four arguments support this premise:

First is the need to plan solutions to regional problems. Small, piecemeal, overlapping jurisdictions cannot cope with urban growth. Consolidation is structural reform. Most have strong mayor-council systems. Many times, outdated elected offices are eliminated. In Nashville, 77 departments

'Time Capsule' doesn't change

By TOM MOORADIAN
Managing Editor

The world is challenging the integrity of our auto workers — there is nothing wrong with American-made cars except the price tags and the high interest rates. Bring them down and take our workers off the unemployment rolls and we will again be the Auto Capital of the World.

Writers fill their sentences with sex and violence and the motto of American TV seems to be "show more of it" — intoxicate viewers with gore in order to produce top ratings.

The meek shall not inherit the earth — they, along with everyone else — will probably be rubbed out during a nuclear war. The survivors will be the robots who will inherit the world, with no programmers.

In Westland, the mayor and the city council are at odds. And that's nothing new. It seems ever since Nankin Township gave way to progressive thinkers wanting to build a bright new city, those two protagonists (or are they "antagonists") have been at odds. We're afraid to say "bury and hatchet" for fear it may wind up in someone's back.

Why intelligent people become mesmerized by power when their first duty is to serve the people who elected them to office is beyond me. The exuberance of politics is swallowed up when individuals put their interests above the interests of their community.

The satisfying knowledge that a person has won an election and has moved forward to accomplish the needs of the community is, to us, "what it's all about."

Romulus, a city divided by an airport, finds an arrogant suitor in a sludge factory. New business is always welcomed by communities, but the illusion which another newspaper offered to the residents of the city is just that — an illusion. There is another word for sludge — and we will not use it here. Nor the name of the other publication.

But, if, as the publication contends, "the sludge factory will create 120 new jobs, 861 side jobs, $1,720,000 in school taxes and $430,000 in city taxes," then why doesn't Detroit (where the sludge is created) roll out the welcome mat?

And if, as we always thought, taxes are based on equalized valuation of property, and if the sludge plant has not been assessed, then where do these seemingly impressive figures come from?

Sludge.

And in the midst of all the controversy and turmoil, the city of Wayne remains calm and almost bucolic in comparison. "It's great," my colleague says, "to live in Wayne."

I prefer Aruba — wherever that may be.

were merged into nine.

Second, consolidation can provide more efficient service like police, fire and refuse collection, if for no other reason than they are well-planned. Specific service improvements in Jacksonville included an end to corruption in law enforcement, installation of 29,000 street lights, and new biweekly garbage collection. Expanded fire protection resulted in lower insurance rates for county residents.

Third, consolidation mends disparity of economic resources. It allows for rational use of taxes. Indianapolis' "Unigov," for example, established a Department of Administration as one of six unified departments that is credited with a number of efficiencies. They coordinated telephone service, centralized legal counseling, provided economical duplicating, signed fewer insurance policies with lower premiums and instituted volume purchasing.

Taxpayers can't take much more

EDITOR — Property taxes across the state are truly out of line.

Our legislators have put off making any laws which would correct the injustice that is built into property taxes. How much more burden must the property owners endure?

The poor farmers are having to sell farm land in order to pay their high taxes. This is only giving to create higher food prices in the future. Then people will wake up and ask what can be done about food prices, when only a few hundred giant farms control prices.

But home owners should fight now to change property taxes. This latest increase in our house assessments is grossly unfair.

The people had their chance to stop it if they would have voted for the last Tisch Amendment. Wake up, voters, and use your Constitutional powers. You now can see how your legislators take care of your needs. They always claim they don't know what the public wants. What a scam!

They passed this bill allowing property tax increases. Now they are trying to raise state income taxes.

Next gasoline taxes, and this is only the start.

What can be done?

One thing, register to vote.

As a group we can create some changes. In the fall we will vote for Governor and many other issues of importance.

Hopefully, on the ballot will be a bill allowing the voters to vote five members to decide on utility rate increases. As it is now three people appointed by the Governor, always pass rate increases.

So let's get registered and vote for our best interests.

Also, you have more control over your city council and local city governments.

Remember, our state legislators will get the message quicker if their jobs are on the line. Let's get tough on them.

Like they are on us.

I don't know about you, but I'm tired of taxes always rising.

Board of Review wasn't any help

EDITOR — I am writing in reference to the latest tax increase in Romulus but mainly about the front page story from our tax assessor.

If you feel that the 15 percent plus increase in your taxes is unjust all you have to do is make an appointment and go before the Board of Review.

Well that's a joke.

Every year for the past ten years our taxes have gone up. For the past three years we have made our appointment and went before this Board and received no consideration.

Mrs. Jolynn DeBuysscher, our assessor, herself states in the article that "Our Board of Review members are not trained appraisers, so if someone did bring in something to show them they wouldn't be able to interpret the language."

Mrs. Joyce Palmer, one of the members of Review Board, as a licensed real estate agent in our community, I would be insulted over that piece of information.

What are they doing on the Board if they are not trained or qualified to interpret the language of appraisals? Why go before these people at all if they don't understand what you are saying to them?

Another point that most people are not aware of is just how much their taxes are going to increase. On your individual tax bills, in the past, your assessed value was always lower than your equalized value. Now they are going to raise the assessed value to meet the equalized value.

The notices we all just received stating that our taxes will be increased by "X" amount of dollars is only part of our tax hike. Brace yourselves for the next one.

I wonder just what it is going to take to get the point across that the taxpayer can't take much more.

Medic Alert sends this note

EDITOR — I am one of the thousands of volunteers working on behalf of the Medic Alert Foundation, the non-profit organization that provides a total system of emergency medical identification for individuals with special medical conditions.

Our goal is to bring Medic Alert to the attention of the one out of five people who has a special medical condition such as diabetes, heart condition, severe allergy or epilepsy. These are among the more than 200 common reasons for membership.

Today, there are well over one million people who have the protection of Medic Alert, a number that is growing by nearly 2,000 every week.

When one of these people is unable to speak in an emergency, for any reason, their Medic Alert emblem will speak for them. Emergency personnel are trained to search for the Medic Alert member's bracelet or necklace that carries the insignia of the medical profession in red. On the back is engraved the medical condition of the wearer and the telephone number of the emergency answering service which operates around the clock.

Emergency personnel can call that number collect from any location and within seconds, receive all the medical and personal information in a member's emergency record. This record can be updated at any time.

Because of their outstanding record of service Medic Alert carries the endorsement of over two dozen medical, law enforcement, and civic organizations.

A lifetime of Medic Alert protection is available for a one time membership fee of $15. For more information, write Medic Alert Foundation, P.O. Box 1009, Turlock, CA, 95381 or call toll-free 800-344-3226.

JOYCE HAGELTHORN

"It's doomsday," I told her. I thought I should warn her. It was obvious she had forgotten.

"Oh my gosh," she said. "I'd forgotten the Jupiter effect." She slapped her hand against her forehead. There was a rumble from outside. I dived under a table.

"Mom," my kid said, leaning over and peering down at me. "That was just a golf cart going by the window."

My acquaintance stared at her wrist watch.

"You know," she said. "I might just have time to finish the back nine before it slides into the ocean."

"And I'm going to eat," my sister said. "I'm not going to slide into that ocean on an empty stomach."

"You going to stay under that table, Mom?" my kid asked.

That was another sign of how courageous I am. I crawled out. And I ate. I don't really remember what I ate though.

MONA GRIGG

cers discoing (yes, discoing) in the costumes from the classy "French Lieutenant's Woman", "Ragtime", "Reds" and "Charlottes of Fire".

I would have given anything to have seen the looks on Diane Keaton's and Meryl Streep's faces. But they were probably retching under their seats at the time.

But when it came to special moments, there were, for me, three: Barbara Stanwyck's moving tribute to William Holden as she accepted a special award.

Warren Beatty's speech, in which he credited the parent company, Gulf & Western, for giving him freedom of expression, for their lack of censorship and for the courage to put up the money for "Reds", a film which depicted, after all, the beginnings of American Socialism and Communism. The applause, as they say, was deafening.

And, finally, Jane Fonda's acceptance of the long-awaited and coveted award for best actor for her father, Henry Fonda. Her words were moving and loving and gracious. A fitting way to end a long and glorious career — and to end a long and often graceless evening.

But the tackiest moment of all (except for when wonderfully tacky Bette Midler took the stage) was when they had dan-and Robert Wagner. So if you want to see wisdom in action, start going to Westland council meetings and watch in action who you voted for.

Isn't anything sacred anymore?

EDITOR — My father Harley, was a director of the Glenwood Cemetery Association that got that cemetery going again, and finally into the hands of the City of Wayne.

When he died in 1964 I sought permission from the city to plant a Colorado Blue Spruce at a spot where an old pine had been removed. That little tree had gotten to be 6 or 7 feet tall, in the 16 or 17 years that I have fed and shaped it.

When my wife died in 1978 I planted a much larger Spruce near her grave rather than wait for a smaller tree to grow.

On March 23rd I visited the cemetery to remove the Christmas grave blankets. Both trees had been cut and removed.

Isn't it nice that some of our citizens were so moved by their Christian spirit that they had to have trees to celebrate Christmas, even if they had to come from a cemetery?

Landfill to be discussed

Editor — On April 7, 1982 at 7:30 p.m., at the Van Buren Township Hall, there will be a public meeting to discuss the renewal of Wayne Disposal hazardous waste permit, under Act 64, if there is enough public interest to warrant such a meeting.

It is quite obvious that the DNR still hasn't gotten the message.

We, the citizens of Van Buren Township definitely are interested in any and all aspects of operation of Wayne Disposal. We ask that our concerns be heard.

Who else has a better right to be directly involved in any decisions pertaining to the landfill than we the people who live with it on a daily basis?

In order to assure us that the meeting will take place, I ask that all who are interested in attending, please write to the DNR by April 2nd, at the following address:

Department of Natural Resources
Environmental Services Division
Office of Hazardous Waste Management
P.O. Box 340038
Lansing, Michigan 48909

Urge for the meeting be held as published. The Landfill Committee and township supervisor have requested that DNR meet with the public already, but we need your support.

Let's not leave the decision to someone else, make your feelings known now and again on April 7th. These are the people (DNR) directly responsible for the operation of Wayne Disposal.

If there are any questions regarding this matter or anything else pertaining to our landfill, please call Rick Edwards at 699-7682.

Retired umpire takes a humorous look at America's game

The Umpire Strikes Back
By Ron Luciano — David Fisher
Bantam Books
$12.95

By STEVE O'LEARY
Special to Playtime

Every year about this time, it seems a new baseball exposé turns up, wherein the Jim Boutons, Sparky Lyles and Billy Martins of the world treat the fans to an inside view of the major leagues, both on and off the field.

And so, as another spring training rolls around, so does another book. This year's model has a different twist to it though, as it's an umpire, that most abused piece of equipment in the game, who spills the beans.

Of course, as followers of our national pastime know, author Ron Luciano was no ordinary umpire, much to the league's (and most manager's) chagrin. When a player was out, Luciano would point his handgun (literally) at the player and scream "Outoutoutoutout!"

He talked nonstop with players, both in the field and at the plate, which caused more than a few embarrassing moments as players tended to lose concentration and get caught off base. Just little things like that.

"The Umpire Strikes Back" is an extremely well written book, and is as humorous as it is insightful. Anecdotes are everywhere, and naturally, quite a few of them center on Ron's disputes with managers.

In particular, Earl Weaver. It seems that Luciano and Weaver started out with an intense dislike for one another, and the relationship deteriorated from there. A good example of their non-made-in-heaven match took place in 1967, when both were in the minor leagues. Luciano made a call that upset Weaver so much that he ran out of the dugout and straight to where the umpire stood at second base. He picked up second base, and took it back with him to the dugout, where he refused to give it back. I've heard of stealing base, but . . .

The most frightening thing Luciano came up against in the major leagues wasn't, as one would suppose, Billy Martin in a dark alley. Rather, it was the introduction of instant replays.

"We knew we made mistakes," he says, "we just didn't want anyone else to know it." Of course, players and managers knew the umps made mistakes, even when they didn't. More often than not, this resulted in Sparky or Billy or Earl ranting at Luciano "You blind #@c#! How the c#@$ can you call him out?"

Which, of course, resulted in the six-foot-four, three-hundred pound umpire giving said manager the boot. Earl Weaver, by the way, holds Luciano's record of getting kicked out in four straight games.

Perhaps the most honest statement ever made by the law-enforcing segment of baseball regarding the infamous "spitball" is here, as Luciano explains that it's quite a common occurrence. But we all know that. But what I at least didn't know was that not only do the umps tolerate it, they actually protect the pitcher.

"If . . . the managers and hitters kept complaining, I was supposed to go out to the mound and frisk the pitcher. Let's really be honest. Who wants to touch Gaylord Perry's sweaty body? Not me. I'd go out there and touch him gently and he'd start giggling as if I were tickling

Out out out out!

"If the managers and hitters kept complaining, I was supposed to go out to the mound and frisk the pitcher. Let's really be honest. Who wants to touch Gaylord Perry's sweaty body? Not me." —Ron Luciano him. Or as soon as I got close enough he'd look at me seriously and say, 'Now whatever you do, Ronnie, don't look on my left shoulder. Remember, my left shoulder.' Naturally, I never caught him."

Ron Luciano retired to go into broadcasting with NBC Sports, but alas, even there he's found no respect. Rodney Dangerfield would be proud to have the lack of respect umpires, and in particular Ron Luciano, has. His first time as color man on the "Game Of The Week" Tommy John pulled his pants down while he was on camera.

As baseball books go, "The Umpire Strikes Back" isn't the shocker "Ball Four" was, nor does it attempt to be. It is, though, superior entertainment for the baseball buff in every fan.

Promise not to laugh. Dennis Davidson, director of parks and recreation in Romulus, attended pro hockey games on four consecutive nights starting last Thursday, including three Detroit Red Wing outings. His travels took him to the Joe Louis Arena to Buffalo to Toronto and finally back to Detroit.

In a world of no-shows, Davidson remains an avid fan of the Wings, who fell out of serious playoff contention weeks ago. He has missed but one home game this season and that occurred due to a millionaire's party in Romulus which helped raise funds for a new softball scoreboard.

You promised.

Actually, Davidson is more than a mere loyal fan—he works with little if any compensation as a game-night assistant for the Red Wings organization. His duties in the press box range from passing out starting lineups to providing games reports for out-of-town media.

After the game, one might find Davidson interviewing players for newspaper stories or even driving a member of the visiting press to the airport. At times he's worked in the penalty box, signalling the referee when commercial timeouts were needed.

So it really comes as no surprise to find the Romulus recreation director still involved in what even for most Red Wings' diehards appears to be a losing cause.

"I love hockey, it's the greatest game in the world," declared Davidson last week before embarking on a trip to see Buffalo host the New York Rangers on Friday night. "Even though I never played it, I've been following hockey since 1952. I'm not a fair weather fan."

Obviously not. Last Wednesday Davidson watched the Wings lose another one on television at Chicago and the next night he was back in the Louis Arena press box as Minnesota prolonged the losing streak. On Friday it was time for a car trip to Buffalo with his wife, Lynne, and two nieces to see the Rangers whip Buffalo.

Then back to Toronto to catch the end of the Wings losing streak on Saturday night at Maple Leaf Gardens. No time to savor a victory, Davidson returned Sunday to his press box chores as the Wings opened the Leafs for the second time in 24 hours.

"My two nieces are in love with Mike Foligno."

Why follow the Wings in person on the road, let alone travel to Buffalo?

"My two nieces (Kelli, 13 and Julie, 15) are in love with (Buffalo's) Mike Foligno," Davidson laughed. "Since he's not with the Wings anymore, they wanted to see him play in Buffalo. They got to meet him after the game Friday."

"Then the next day they met Rod Stewart in our hotel in Toronto," he added. "I guess he was in town for a concert on Sunday. I've always wanted to sit in the gondola in Maple Leaf Gardens anyway."

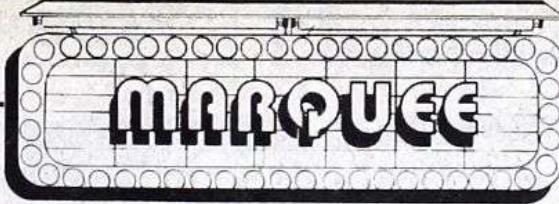

There are, however, some drawbacks to his hockey avocation.

"After working in the press box for seven years, sometimes I walk into the visitor's dressing room just to see who we're playing," admitted Davidson. "I'm passively interested in the action but I'm so involved in the press box that I don't see that much of the games."

"And it's depressing sometimes to go into the locker room after a loss and see the players sitting with their heads in their hands."

An associate member of the Detroit Sports Broadcasters Association, Davidson enjoys his comradery with the members of the media but does not become too friendly with the players ("I don't want to be known as a groupie," he points out).

Onstage with the comic genius

By STEVE O'LEARY
Special to Playtime

Richard Pryor's second concert movie is proof positive that the accident that burned almost his entire body and nearly killed him didn't affect his creative genius, which is practically universally acclaimed as comedy's greatest.

"He's good," you may say, "but he's not a genius!" Sure he's good. As an actor in films like "Stir Crazy" and "Silver Streak" he's been great. And as a writer he's written scripts for "Sanford and Son" and "The Flip Wilson Show," as well as co-writing "Blazing Saddles" with Mel Brooks.

But it's onstage that he becomes THE stand-up comedian of our time, and since his language would draw dander from the "moral majority," television will never see the real Richard Pryor. At least as long as there are censors.

But keep in mind that while his language is where most people find fault with him, Pryor has a way of making you feel comfortable with his use of it. It's real, and it's reality he deals with. Not the "real life" comedy of George Carlin, who's still amazed that all frozen peas look alike, but a deeper reality, one consisting of loneliness, deteriorating relationships, and friendship. Oh yes, and drugs...

The last twenty minutes or so of "Richard Pryor Live On The Sunset Strip" is a personal statement on Pryor's accident while free-basing two years ago. It's the strongest anti-addiction message imaginable, with Richard and his pipe having conversations—with Pryor, of course, playing both parts.

"Say Rich...you know you let me get a little low yesterday. Watch that..." At once hilarious and deeply moving (his friend, Jim Brown making him confront his own addiction: "So. What you gonna do?"), this segment stands as a classic piece of comedy, fueled as it is with Pryor's own pain.

Keep in mind that this isn't your typical movie with your typical movie plot that won't cause you to raise an eyebrow. Rather it's an opportunity to laugh your proverbial rear end off for only a few bucks, and you'll be telling some of the jokes to friends for weeks to come, pretending they're your own.

Be warned though, that it's not a good movie to take a date to if your intentions are less than honorable, because you'll be so caught up in the hilarity that you'll forget why you went there in the first place. Likewise, the refreshment stand did very poor business, and many of those that did buy popcorn ate a bit or two and forgot about it. I haven't done that since "Star Wars!"

Lenny Bruce, who opened many doors for comedians like Richard Pryor, died for society's sins. Pryor survived, and it's a good thing, because the world needs all the laughs it can get, and, as "Live On The Sunset Strip" shows, no one gets more of them than he.

Richard Pryor stars in live performance on Sunset Strip.

Full menu awaits diners at Blazo's in Westland

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Feature Editor

For 10 years Blazo's has been synonymous with scrumptious pies. Believe it or not, it's an image that owner John McEvilly hopes to change as soon as possible.

Yes, Blazo's still sells hundreds of the area's best pies every week. But that's only a small part of what's going on at that familiar chalet-style restaurant on Wayne Road in Westland.

Blazo's Restaurant and Pie Shoppe is just that—a restaurant first and pie shoppe second. A full menu greets visitors with a growing variety of breakfast, lunch and dinner selections, all moderately priced.

Forget about the notion that Blazo's is for pastry lovers. From 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. each morning one can order a breakfast special of two eggs, bacon or sausage, hash browns and toast for $1.89 ($2.19 from 11:30 till 2 p.m.). Other breakfast offerings range from french toast, pancakes and ham steak to a hearty steak and eggs meal.

During the lunch break it's time for one of some 10 sandwiches on the menu, featuring a reuben, corned beef, fish, ham, tuna, grilled cheese and others. Homemade soups and chili (a personal favorite) are specialties that live up to their billing.

A half of a chicken, baked and specially seasoned, is a dinner choice for $3.45, served with french fries, salad, honey and Blazo's home-baked rolls. Other evening entrees include beef steak, fish and chips, scallop and clam platters and ham steak, in addition to jumbo salad selections for the calorie watchers.

Round tables and booths provide a cozy setting as a capacity of 65 diners relax inside the unique chalet. The friendliness and concern that the waitresses show the customers is genuine—they enjoy serving the public and that warmth shines through.

Why then, considering the full menu and restaurant atmosphere, is Blazo's encountering an identity problem of sorts?

"We've only started serving a full menu in the past year or so," remarked McEvilly, who took over management of the operations some three years ago. "Until then Blazo's had a few sandwiches to go with the pies."

"But even now I'll bet only one out of 10 people know that we serve food here," he added. "They still think of pies when they hear 'Blazo's'."

And pies are still a very important part of the Blazo's reputation, with over 20 available. Baked each morning beginning at 5 a.m., there's a pie for every taste...apple, coconut, butterscotch, chocolate, peanut butter, lemon, banana, cherry, blueberry, well you get the idea.

Pies are priced at $4.39 with a large slice ($1.10) making an excellent dessert following dinner.

Blazo's Restaurant, located at 449 North Wayne Road, is open from 8 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Sundays through Thursdays and from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

As the suggestion on the Blazo's menu says, "Take a pie home to someone nice." And try a breakfast, lunch or dinner at Blazo's while you're there, we might add.

Blazo's Restaurant and Pie Shoppe in Westland offers a full menu in addition to its delicious pies. Getting ready for another day of business are

Connie Testorelli selected as BPW's Young Careerist Candidate

At the March meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW), announcement was made of the selection of the club's Young Careerist candidate for 1982.

She is Connie Cook Testorelli, a Belleville High School graduate, now living at 50330 Willis Rd., Belleville, with her husband, James P. Testorelli.

Employed in the 4-H Division of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension, Mrs. Testorelli has been involved with 4-H for some 12 years having become a member in grade school. During her association with the organization, she participated in programs on livestock, health, sewing, cooking, gardening and communications skills.

An active member of St. Anthony's parish, she serves as a minister of the eucharist and is in the Altar Society. She also is involved with the Special Olympics, does volunteer church work and is a member of the PNA Lodge of Belleville. Her hobbies include sewing and arts and crafts.

She graduated from BHS in 1977 and attended Wayne State University for a year before transferring to Eastern Michigan University. Majoring in special education for the emotionally impaired, she plans to do graduate work in the same field after her May 1 graduation.

The daughter of Robert and Agnes Cook of Belleville, Mrs. Testorelli will represent the Belleville BPW at the District XIII meeting in Wyandotte April 13. There she will again make her presentation, telling about herself and her career accomplishments, and will experience a 3-minute interview conducted by the judges. The winner of that competition will continue on to the state level to compete for the Michigan Young Careerist title. That winner, in turn, will meet with state representatives at a national convention in Texas.

Riverside third graders have visitors

Riverside School's third graders had a special lesson on teeth and their care when Mrs. Don De Lano visited and brought along models of jaws with mal-aligned teeth and other models of the same jaws after correction by braces.

Also fascinating to the youngsters was a clear plastic model with permanent teeth ready to move into place by pushing out the baby teeth.

In addition, she not only demonstrated the use of dental floss but presented each child with a personal sample. Mrs. De Lano has two sons at Riverside, David and Joey.

Another recent visitor was Daniel Mitchell's mother, Esther Mitchell, who taught and led the group in several songs including the "Unicorn" and "Michael, Row the Boat" in keeping with the recent flood.

Riverside continues to invite parents, grandparents and friends to come to classes and share a hobby, activity, skill or pictures and slides of interesting subjects. It is felt that it helps to broaden a youngster's knowledge of things other than academia.

Quotes worth quoting ...

"When a man wantonly destroys one of the works of man, we call him a vandal. When he wantonly destroys one of the works of God, we call him a sportsman."

Joseph Wood Krutch said it.

Ah, but we're not through yet! At the fringe of the metropolis is still ANOTHER place where one can grab a warm donut or two or a sackful if he's a true believer. It's the bakery department of the newly-opened super market where tantalizing aromas greet patrons and steer 'em via their noses directly to the sweets section.

We're not terribly familiar with the donut haunts in nearby Adrian (who NEEDS 'em?) but you can't even get INTO the city from our direction without having to pass "Zummie's". It's another of those drive-up-to places where again, all the tempting artistry is displayed. And even at the wheel of the car and going the speed limit, a "dough-nut" can tell the long johns from the twists and the raised donuts from their fried cousins.

And all the above to the very bad habit of "liking to bake" and, oh lordy (as C.S. is apt to say), you're in bad shape, lady. B-A-D shape!

ARIES CLAIMS

A FEW NOTABLES
There would have been a big party at the White House last Monday, March 29, if our 10th president, John Tyler, had lived. And there'd have been a warm glow from his 192 candles. Pearl Bailey has the same birth date — she was a bit younger — 64.

A well-known trio sharing March 30 are Warren Beatty who might well have celebrated his 44th holding an Oscar from the night before; Franklin Lane, who's up to 69; and "Hollywood Squares", Peter Marshall, whose age is not given.

Today, March 31, is a full house what with Herb (Tijuana Brass) Alpert marking number 47; Richard Chamberlain, his 47th; Shirley Jones, her 48th; Richard Kiley, his 60th and Gordie Howe, his 54th.

Then on April Fool's Day we have Ali McGraw turning 43 and Debbie Reynolds hitting the big 5-0.

Alec Guinness will turn 68; Jack Webb, 62 and Buddy Ebsen, 74 — all on April 2. A day later will be the 58th for Marlon Brando; the 38th for Tony Orlando; the 40th for Wayne Newton and Marsha Mason (is she topping her cake with an academy statuette?) and the 58th for Doris Day.

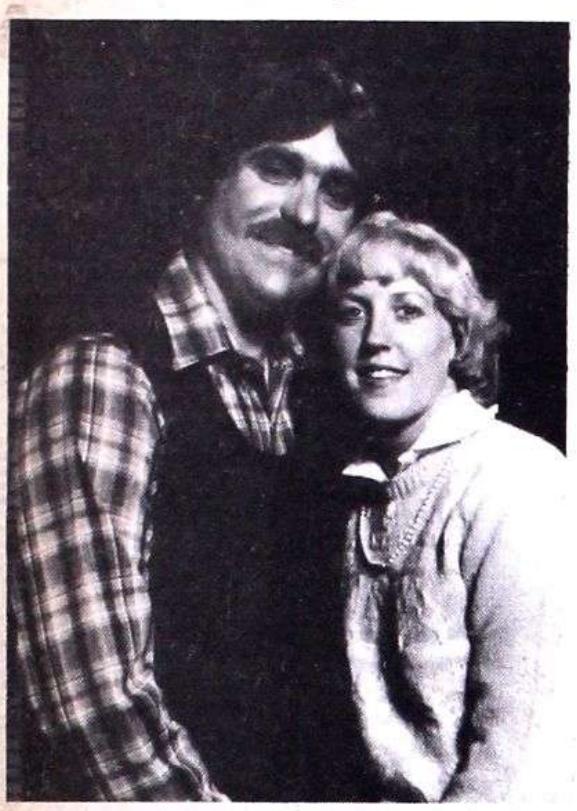

AND — JUST BECAUSE IT'S SPRING...

...we're gonna tell you about forsythia (got that, Jackson?) One of the earliest harbingers of spring, forsythia is a large, flowering shrub whose brilliant yellow flowers are a joy to behold. Originally native to China, the plant was domesticated in Great Britain by William Forsythe, the royal gardener under King George III. The plant was named in Forsythe's honor.

...and I bet you wouldn't mind learning where that seasonal word, "harbinger", comes from. The traditional harbinger of spring, the robin, bears little resemblance to a german soldier but the world "harbinger" has much to do with soldiers. It is derived from the old high German "heriberga" which meant "shelter for soldiers." Originally a harbinger was one who went ahead of any army or royal party to arrange for lodging and other accommodations. Since then it has come to mean anyone who goes ahead to announce the coming of others — or a person or thing which hints of coming events. That's how the robin (and the forsythia) got into the act.

THE BOTTOM LINE: Eat, drink and be merry, and people will wonder how you can afford it.

Cub Scouts donate four duck houses to nature center

Cub Scouts Steve Howard, Chris Hogan, Larry Blackwell, Ken and David Gray, Mike Coleman, Devin Townsend, and Webley Duane Townsend presented four wood duck houses to naturalist Gerald Wykes of Oakwood Nature Center on March 16.

ANP's All-Area

Area produces 'blue chip' prep grapplers

Associated Newspapers' small cadre of devoted high school wrestlers had many obstacles to overcome this year. Unlike their past colleagues, most wondered if their season wasn't going to be wiped out — not by injury, a constant threat, but by economics.

School districts, hurting from the economic depression, were forced to cut back, but groups of booster clubs came to the aid and helped raise money to field teams.

And one group of youngsters — some 27 of them — are thankful. They were named today by the Associated Newspapers' sports staff and area coaches, to the 1981-82 coveted All-Area Wrestling Teams.

Not discouraged by battered and scarred parent vs. board of education wars, these youngsters demanded and got respect on the mats. Named to the All-Area First Team are:

Salem), Ted Badami (167-senior, Westland John Glenn), Scott Wickens (185-senior, Plymouth Salem), Melvin Richendollar (198-senior, Belleville) and Marty Piper (Heavyweight - senior, Plymouth Salem).

The line-up for the second team includes 14 wrestlers because coaches believed the 185-pound class had two outstanding performers this year in Jim Nesbitt of Wayne Memorial and Tom Aloisi of Westland John Glenn.

Plymouth Salem, which had an outstanding season, snatched the final Suburban 8 Conference wrestling championship away from Belville en route to a fourth place in the Class A state finals.

Among Coach Ron Krueger's stalwart performers, heavyweight Marty Piper, was superlative. Only a freak accident prevented him from competing in the state finals. Piper was involved in a car mishap and failed to show up for the district finals which disqualified him for state.

But Piper's 35-1 won-lost record can't be diminished. The Rock captain captured gold medals at the tough Bedford Invitational, the Westland John Glenn and the Wayne Invitations. He also was first at the Canton, North Farmington, Monroe and Suburban 8 Conference meets. He holds the record for most pins in a season at 30 and also most career pins at 59. He strung together 10 victories via falls, also a school record and is considered one of the finest all-around athletes ever produced at the school.

The Beaudoin brothers — Randy and John — also had superb years. Randy posted a 46-7 season and finished atop of the 155 field at Wayne, Canton, Salem, Monroe, Suburban 8. He also struck gold at the district tournament, then finished second at the regionals and wound up with a sixth place medal at state. Randy amassed 26 pins, tied the school record for successsive pins at 10 and chipped in 297 team points.

John Beaudoin lost only three times in 49 trips to the mat. He earned gold medals at Wayne, Canton, the Sub 8, in the district and the regional and surprised a tough field to capture the coveted first place medal at state. He led the team in pins with 26 and finished with 306½ points.

Bachman was also one of the excellent reasons why Salem had an outstanding year. He compiled a 48-2 won-lost record and captured gold medals at nine major tournaments including the Wayne, Bedford, John Glenn, Salem, Monroe, district and regional. He was runner-up at state and holds the distinction of garnering more wins (48) in one season than any of his predecessors.

Wickens finished his prep wrestling career with a 37-8 record, and came up with a gold at the Wayne Invitational and the Suburban 8 Conference. Scott was second at the district, but finished third at Bedford and the Salem tournaments.

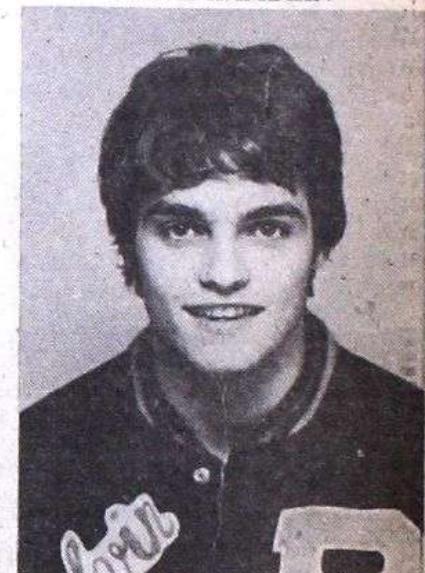

Eric Waters is the lone representative from Romulus and he earned his niche by helping the Eagles score points in the district and the regionals by placing first. The tough competitor ended a superb wrestling career with a gold medal at the regional, but unfortunately never had the opportunity to compete for a league title (Romulus isn't affiliated with any conference).

Belleville had a state runner-up in Melvin Richendollar who excelled not only on the mats but on the gridiron and in the classroom. He finished second at state at 201 after capturing the Suburban 8 Conference and the regional titles. His father, James Richendollar, was the first wrestling coach in Belleville history, and is presently principal of that school.

Mel has been wrestling for six years and began his career as a 98-pounder. He carries a 'B' average academically. He has won gold medals at the John Glenn, Belleville, Wayne Memorial invitational, while he finished second at Monroe and third in the district. He has posted a career record of 71-24 and had the most falls for a heavyweight at 24. Mel also piled up 45 victories via falls.

Stewart is a 119-pounder who had a 31-12 record this year and had the team's most takedowns at 57. He was a state qualifier and placed second at the John Glenn, fourth at district and regionals while he was third at Belleville and Wayne invitational.

Nigg amassed a 39-19 record during his last two years and earned 16 victories out of 22 trips to the mat this year. He was first the Wayne Invitational, while winding up second at Monroe and Belleville. Bruce was fifth at Plymouth Salem.

Wood, a heavyweight, earned the district title after picking up third places at the Westland John Glenn, the Belleville and Wayne Invitations. He was runner-up at the Monroe tourney and second in the league. He finished his prep mat career with a 28-9 record for his senior year, while piling up a 35-11 over-all career mark.

It's Jake's vs. Tastee Freez for title

The 1981-82 Wayne-Westland Over 30 hockey season comes down to one game, and that's the match up between Tastee Freez and Jake's Lounge who'll meet to determine the over-all league championship.

The two archrivals will meet at 8:30 p.m., April 4 in the Wayne Arena.

Salem's Krueger is top coach

RON KRUEGER

The name Ron Krueger has become synonymous with outstanding wrestlers and wrestling.

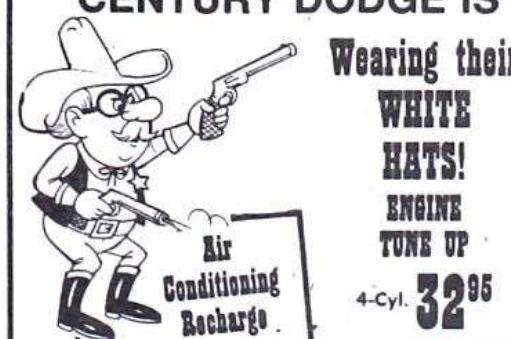

The veteran Plymouth Salem wrestling coach has produced some of the finest young talent in the state and he attributes his wrestlers' successes to "hard work."

"Wrestling is one sport where it's you and the guy in front of you," Krueger said. "You have to be mentally and physically prepared or it's defeat. And that's all there is to it."

Krueger has been producing champs for over a decade and this year's team managed to capture the last Suburban 8 Conference championship en route to a fourth place in the state. It's only a matter of speculation, but one can dream of what would have been if Krueger's excellent heavyweight, Marty Piper, hadn't been disqualified from competing at the regionals. Piper was involved in a car accident and failed to show up for the district finals, making him ineligible to compete, although he qualified for the regionals.

For Krueger's outstanding contribution to the sport, the Associated Newspapers is proud to name him as our "Coach of the Year."

Nineteen compete at Martial arts Expo

Nineteen students from Hwang's Tae Kwon Do on Eureka in Romulus were initiated into the world of martial arts competition last week.

Giving their best punches and kicks in the day-long event, they competed with approximately 500 other contestants from Michigan, Ohio, Canada, and Pennsylvania, in sparring and form divisions at the 1982 Detroit Oriental Martial Arts Expo held at Wayne State University.

Eight of Master Hwang's students walked away with 10 medals.

In the Mini Pee-wee Division, Green Belt, Justin Nelson, age 7, took a 2nd place silver medal, while Green Belt, Richard Rogala, (age 8) was awarded a third place Bronze medal. A first place Gold medal was given to Green Belt, Yong Mien Mun (age 9) for outstanding form in the Pee-wee Division.

A novice White Belt, Jim Bland (age 11), proved that determination gets results with a 3rd place Bronze medal in Pee-wee sparring.

Despite a foot injury received in his first bout, Leroy Davis (age 13), walked away with a second place silver medal in the Junior Lightweight Division.

In the Junior Heavyweight Division, Mike Kieliszak (age 14) poured on the sweat after three rounds in a tie-breaking bout, resulting in a second place Silver medal.

White belt, Dana Hensley (age 21), and Green Belt David Bland (age 40), brought double honors to their school by each winning two medals.

Both placed third in form in their divisions. Dana, competing in Men's Middleweight Sparring, won a 2nd place Silver medal for his efforts. After an applaudable tie-breaking bout, David Bland was handed the coveted first place gold medal in the Men's Senior Division.

After the grueling competition, seven of Master Hwang's young students were awarded a tremendous round of applause with their board-breaking demonstration.

Patricia Martinez (Y-age 6), Martina Rock (G-age 9), Chris Bartolo (G-age 9), Justin Nelson (G-age 7), Richard Rogala (G-age 8), Yong Mien Mun (G-age 9), and Tony Alongi (G-age 11) showed just what power and concentration can achieve. Another student, Katie Nolan (G-age 11) was unable to participate because of a leg injury sustained in sparring.

Bringing additional honor to his school, Master Instructor Chi Sung Hwang, a 6th degree Black Belt, was requested to do the finale. By breaking a total of 12 bricks and 4 boards in 6 consecutive, spectacular moves, Master Hwang set a shining example of what endurance, effort, and concentration can achieve.

STUDENT AID.

It takes more than brains to go to college. It takes money. For tuition, room and board, and books.

The Army College Fund is designed to help you get that money for college while serving your country.

If you qualify, you can join the Army College Fund when you join the Army. For every dollar you put in, Uncle Sam puts in five. Or more.

So, after just two years in the Army, you can have up to $15,200 for college. After three years, up to $20,100.

Call for your free copy of the Army College Fund booklet. It could be the most important book you've ever read. Call toll free 800-423-3673. In California, 800-282-5864.

The University of Michigan Hospitals

While nursing at the Michigan Burn Center is demanding work, it is also very rewarding. Daily meetings between nurses, physicians and other staff members are held to coordinate the work done by this professional team. Following cases from admission through discharge, you will use every skill you have acquired, helping patients and their families adjust to severe burn trauma. During the course of treatment, you will play a vital role in training the family to assist with necessary therapy and rehabilitative programs. The Michigan Burn Center is actually a hospital within a hospital, with its own lab, operating room, intensive care facility and the most modern equipment for the treatment of burns. If you would like more information about the rewarding work we do here, please call collect (313) 763-3010 or write to: Nurse Recruitment Office.
